Health Technology and Ways to Make an Evolution in Health Care Management; Reporting Measures Taken in a Teaching Hospital

Farhad Shahim*, Yasaman Altontash

Management Department, Imam Hossein Hospital, Shahid Beheshti University of Medical Sciences, Tehran, Iran.

*Corresponding author: Management Department, Imam Hossein Hospital, Shahid Madani Street, Tehran, Iran. Tel: 00982173432355; Email: dr.shahim2@gmail.com

Abstract

Today's world is ever-changing and adapting to changes is essential for survival. Health technology and performing procedures to make an evolution has been considered in Imam Hossein Hospital since a long time ago and numerous measures have been taken in this regard. Implementing change in health care, equips experts and managers to better prepare themselves for the future. Therefore, the present study was done to provide a thorough report on carrying out health technology and performing procedures to make an evolution in Imam Hossein Hospital, a major hospital in Tehran, Iran.

Keywords: Hospital information systems; automation; delphi technique; delivery of health care; patient satisfaction